

Phillips farm late on the September night of the murders astraddle a mule resulted from her efforts to catch a thief who had been stealing corn from her farm.

Because her mule had brayed several times, she said, she tied him to a cedar tree and walked toward De Russes lane, where she intended hiding in the hope the thief would come.

Senator Simpson's questions and her answers from this point follow:

Q—How far did you get before your attention was attracted? A—I might have gone thirty feet, or something like that, from where I tied the mule, or forty feet.

Q—Can you indicate to us any object that was near there, any trees or stumps? A—Yes there was a bunch of trees, then I got near a big cedar tree.

Q—Then when you got near the cedar tree what happened; what was it that first attracted your attention? A—Then I heard a quarrel and voices.

Heard Women's Voices.

Q—Can you tell whether they were men's voices or women's voices? A—Well, they were mumbled, I could not just tell. It was like a quarrel, mumbled; there were women there.

Q—Were their voices low, quiet, pleasant or what? A—At first they were loud.

Q—Did you hear any particular expression like chair, horse or letter, anything like that? A—No, sir, I heard that was said? A—Well, somebody said, very much excited, something about letters.

Q—Well, what could you hear said about letters? Was it "explain these letters" or "A—Something like that."

Q—Was it a man's voice or a woman's voice? A—It was a woman's voice the first.

Q—Up to this time you could not see anybody? A—No, sir; I could not see anybody; it was dark. I was 10 or 15 feet away from them.

Q—Then, did you see going on? A—No, sir; I stood still.

Q—Then what did you see? A—Well, there was more mumbled and the voices seemed to get much clearer, and I saw a flashlight.

Saw a Man's Face.

Q—What was the next thing you saw? A—Then I saw something glimmer and I saw a man's face.

Q—Whose face did you see? Can you pick him out in the courtroom? A—This here man.

Q—Go down and put your hand on him. A—This man here.

Q—Pointing to Harry Carpenter? A—Yes, sir.

Q—As he flashed the light around something glimmered in his hand? A—Yes, sir.

Q—After you saw him with something glimmering in his hand did you hear any report? A—Yes, right quick.

Q—What was it you heard? A—A shot.

Q—Up to that time had you seen any woman at all, up to the time you saw her face? A—Only later, not at first.

Q—After this, did you see any woman there, after you heard the report, the shot? A—No, sir, I didn't, not then.

Q—Did you see how many women were there? A—No, sir, I could not see; it was dark.

Q—Was there any other man there at the time? A—I could not say, I just ran for the mule and.

Ran for Her Mule.

Q—Before you ran for the mule, when you saw the flashlight and heard the voices, did you see a colored man there or anybody that looked like a colored man? A—No, sir.

Q—Not at that time? A—No, sir.

Q—After you saw this man and heard the shot, what did you do? A—I ran.

Q—What did you hear after that? A—Three shots afterwards; while I was mounting the mule I heard another three shots.

Q—What did you do then, where did you go? A—I ran right home.

Q—Then, what did you find to be the condition when you got home? A—When I stepped off the mule I got my foot wet and I found I had lost my moccasin.

Q—Well, what did you do then? A—I went in the house and stayed there a little while, then decided I would go back.

Q—And what did you do? A—I went over to where I had the mule tied, thinking I might have lost my moccasin there, because I stumbled over that stump.

Q—And what did you do, did you find your moccasin there? A—No, sir, I didn't. While I was there I heard somebody crying.

Q—Crying? A—Yes, sir.

Q—Well, what did you hear? A—Well, I heard somebody crying; I didn't know what it was.

Q—Well, what did you do? A—I just tied the mule again and I walked back to look around to see what I could see.

Q—Where would that bring you; would that bring you to the place where you first stood? A—Yes, sir.

Saw a Woman Kneeling.

Q—Then what did you do when you first got there? A—I looked through the bushes there and I saw a lady kneeling down or stooping down, I could not tell you which.

Q—Well, was she kneeling, crying? A—She was crying.

Q—And how long did you watch her? A—No very long.

Q—Was the moon up? A—Yes, the moon was very bright.

Q—Do you know who she is, have you identified her since? A—I have seen her since that time.

Q—Who is she? A—Mrs. Hall.

Q—At that time you could not see that these two things in front of her were bodies? A—No, sir, I could not. I did not know anything was there.

Q—What did you see in front of her like shadows of trees? A—Well, I thought they were shadows of trees.

Q—When you saw this lady crying could you tell how she was dressed? A—Yes, she had a coat on like mine, a tan coat.

Q—How long? A—I could not tell; I didn't see.

Q—Did you see what kind of a hat she had on? A—No, sir.

Q—Could you tell whether her hair was white or not? A—White.

Q—White hair? A—Yes, sir.

Q—You had no trouble discerning her features? A—No, sir.

Q—Did you see any other objects like men walking around? A—I could not see; there was something moving, but I could not tell. I could not see; it was dark.

Thought It Was Colored Man.

Q—Well, was there any one else there moving around, like a colored man? Did you have the words "colored man" in your mind? A—No, I thought the man in the lane was a colored man.

Q—Who was the man you saw standing by the automobile in the lane? A—The man and the lady in the lane the first time.

Q—When you say "the man and

JUDGE IS IMPRESSED BY WOMAN'S STORY OF DOUBLE MURDER

Somerville, N. J., Aug. 13.—[Special.]—Commenting upon the Hall-Mills hearing at which he presided this afternoon, County Judge Frank L. Cleary indicated that he had been greatly impressed with the evidence presented so far. Whether he will hold Stevens and Carpenter for the grand jury, he, of course, has not yet decided, but he did say that "no one could fail to be impressed by the testimony of Mrs. Gibson."

"I had never before seen her," but fanned her an uncouth person, illiterate," he said. "Instead she seemed to be a woman of intelligence who displayed no illiteracy in the excellent choice of words with which she told her story straightforwardly."

Judge Cleary said that no judge could disregard such a positive identification, and if, further on in the hearing, there is some corroboration of her identification, the case certainly would warrant consideration of the grand jury.

the lady" you mean the two that were revealed by the automobile lights? A—Yes, sir.

Q—You say the man with her looked like a colored man? A—Yes, sir.

Q—Was he a heavy, thick-set man? A—Yes, sir.

Q—Did you notice whether he had a mustache or not? A—I think he did.

Q—The woman you saw in the lane, did she resemble the woman you saw kneeling and crying? A—It was the same woman.

Q—The same woman? A—Yes, and the reason I didn't bother her, that I didn't want to bother her, was because I really thought it was a white woman with a colored man and something had happened to her that oughtn't to have happened, and I went about my business. I didn't feel sorry for her. I said it served her right to be there with the man.

Q—The woman you now identify as Mrs. Hall? A—Yes.

Q—Standing opposite a small sedan with a man who looked like a colored man? A—Yes.

Q—A heavy set man with a heavy mustache? A—Yes, sir.

MR. SIMPSON—That is all.

Significant questions by Mr. Pfeiffer, with interjections by Mr. Simpson, follow:

Q—Now you say that when you first saw persons there, you saw two persons in the road, one of whom was Mrs. Hall. Is that correct? A—Yes, sir.

Q—Who was the other person? A—I do not know. It was a tall heavy set man; I thought it was a colored man.

Q—In the course of the many persons you have been asked to identify since this occurrence, have you been able to identify this particular person? A—This man—that is the man there. I don't know what his name is, but that is the man who was in the lane.

MR. SIMPSON—The man with the glasses?

THE WITNESS—Right here.

MR. SIMPSON—Are you speaking now of Mr. Willie Stevens or Mr. Henry Carpenter?

THE WITNESS—"Willie" Stevens. MR. SIMPSON—"Willie" Stevens is the man she says was in the lane that looked like a colored man.

Never Saw Him Before.

MR. PFEIFFER—This is the first time you ever saw Mr. Willie Stevens? A—Yes, sir.

Q—You heard the shots some time later, after you had seen these two figures? A—Yes, sir.

Q—Did you hear anything said just before, between or after you heard the pistol shots? A—When the first shot was fired, yes, I heard two women: one screamed and the other said, "O, Henry!"

Q—What? A—I don't know what.

Q—"O, Henry," is that all? A—That is all; that was it.

THEIR LOVE MISSIVES

Following Mrs. Gibson on the stand, Charlotte Mills unfolded a story that almost equaled the "pig woman's" in interest. She told how her mother and the clergyman had a "postoffice" for love missives in a book in the parlor's church study. Speaking clearly and with no outward trace of emotion, she told of her mother's aspirations for self-betterment. Then, casting a quick glance at Mr. Carpenter, who

NORTH SIDE AERO FIELD NOW NEED OF CITY—KEMP

Sees Boom in Program O. K'd by Coolidge.

A new lake front flying field in Lincoln park is one of Chicago's immediate needs if the city is to take full advantage of the opportunity laid before it in the commercial aviation program approved by President Coolidge and Secretary Hoover yesterday.

This statement was made last night by Maj. P. G. Kemp, chairman of Mayor Dever's aero commission, in commenting upon the President's authorization of five new passenger, express and mail airways, two spanning the continent, and all with central terminals in Chicago.

Prohibition Fight Enters South.

Little Rock, Ark., Aug. 13.—[Special.]—While liquor was not an issue in the recent campaign for the Democratic nomination for governor of Arkansas, the voters selected for their governor the candidate who admitted that he had taken "social drinks" and rejected the man who claimed that he had never taken a drink of liquor.

League Takes a Hand.

The Anti-Slavery League, through its Arkansas representative, the Rev. Paul Kempner, was drawn into the campaign when Kempner wrote a letter to the ministers of the state asking them to oppose Martinique and support Terral because of Martinique's admission that he had taken "social drinks."

Survey to Be Made.

At the next meeting of the commission, according to Maj. Kemp, the project will be discussed. With the consent of the park board, a survey will probably be made to determine the most advantageous site for the field. Ample space, it is believed, would be available on the new land between Diversey parkway and Irving Park boulevard.

Leading Leaguers with Martinique.

In his campaign efforts Gov. Terral made considerable political thunder out of the drinking habits of Martinique and charged that he had been drunk many times.

HUGE STRIKES BREAK BRITISH LABOR UNIONS

Seek $5,000,000 Loan as Members Desert Ranks.

BY JOHN STEELE.
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
LONDON, Aug. 13.—British trade unionism is relying on its ability to secure a $5,000,000 loan from the international in order to redress the misfortunes occasioned by the general strike. Unless this loan is secured, the labor movement here is doomed to a serious setback.

These facts were elicited today by a general inquiry made by THE TRIBUNE into the general condition in which the strike has left the labor organizations. While the general trades union council leaders incline to minimize the disastrous conditions of the unions, asserting the empty coffers are due to natural conditions and not directly the result of the disgruntled union members refusing to pay their dues, individual union leaders openly say the men are breaking away, refusing to pay up and in some cases forming independent unions.

Loans Alone Bind Unions.
Trades union council spokesmen assert the negotiations for the Amsterdam loan are going on favorably, with the best chances for success, but in view of the size of the sum and the fact that the negotiations have been going on for two months this does not appear to be a certainty. All sides admit that the conditions are serious and that trades unionism is holding together only by virtue of byword money.

No figures are available on the extent of losses to labor union membership as a result of the strike, but when their conference is held at Bourne-mouth it will be astonishing figures on the dropping off, and individual leaders go so far as to say that they will amount to hundreds of thousands.

Labor headquarters today admitted the general industrial slump existing from 1920 to 1925 had reduced the labor unions' ranks from 6,500,000 members to 4,500,000. Last year saw a two per cent increase, according to figures announced at the labor conference last year.

Leaders' Views Vital.
Havelock Wilson, president of the seamen's union, asserts that every union is bankrupt and the ranks are disintegrating. Mr. Wilson is of the opinion that the only way to save capital is essential to labor and favoring a better understanding with the employers. E. Cathery, general secretary of the seamen, said the men's attitude is against paying support to unionism as well as general indifference to remaining affiliated, he said.

According to Mr. Cathery, the strike cost the seamen $50,000 ($250,000), and it is remembered that the seamen did not join the general strike. The railway men, who participated, used up $2,000,000 ($10,000,000). The funds of all the unions are further depleted because in many instances the unions were not reinstated and are still drawing unemployed pay from the unions.

Seamen May Withdraw.
Still another instance of the schism in the labor ranks is evidenced by the fact that the seamen now are balloting on withdrawing entirely from the parliamentary labor party affiliation.

E. C. Tracy, trades union council spokesman, characterized as a gross distortion of the facts the charges of Havelock Wilson that the unions are in a bankrupt condition generally and that the men are deserting.

"The unemployment naturally draws heavily on our funds, and we have used most of our reserves paying those who refused reinstatement," he said. "However, this is not a new condition and has been the condition faced in every other strike which has marked the post-war readjustment. No doubt some were displeased with the calling of the general strike and have broken away, in many instances forming new independent unions."

In any event the labor conference scheduled at Bourne-mouth in September will be stormy and the individual unions are planning a scathing attack against the trade union council for the political mistake in the strike. Charges will be made especially against the council calling the strike before taking a ballot among the men.

Referring to the refusal of the men to pay dues, the trade union congress explanation is that unemployment has increased largely since the strike, and consequently the men are unable to pay, but are not, therefore, dropping from the unions. Unemployment always checks labor solidarity, Mr. Tracy said.

Coal Strike Peace Nearer.
Further moves were made today for settling the coal mine controversy. Prospects for peace are rosier, though the immediate end still is uncertain. A. J. Cook, the miners' secretary, this afternoon definitely appealed to Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin to invite the miners' leaders to meet the government to arrange for a national agreement. At the same time the Trades Union Council met and is prepared to intervene when the time is ripe.

The prolongation of the dispute so far has caused only a minimum of household deprivation, but the approach of the winter is giving rise to apprehensions of domestic suffering. In any case the colliery owners say it will require a year before the return to normal has been reached, because of the inroads into the markets made by foreign competitors.

An inkling of these losses to the public was afforded today in the publication of the board of trade figures shown in two ways. During July Great Britain imported 2,519,000 tons of coal, or more than four times the usual importations, at a cost of more than $30,000,000, as compared with 360 tons valued at $3,500, last year. The total coal exports totaled 7,390 tons, as compared with 4,400 tons in July of last year. July's general imports showed a big jump over June. The drop in the export trade was 14 percent below the first seven months of 1925.

LACK OF MONEY HALTS WIDENING OF 22D STREET

Many Building Projects
Tied Up.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

Progress on the reworking of Twenty-second street to a width of 120 feet between the Illinois Central railroad and Archer avenue has been practically stopped by Mayor Dever because of the lack of cash. As a result, sundry building projects, some of major importance for that area, are being delayed as follows:
The Equitable Trust company of Chicago, a 14 story bank, store, and office building to be erected at the southwest corner of Michigan boulevard and Twenty-second street, at an estimated cost of $1,250,000.
Murray Wolbach, an apartment building 6 to 8 stories in height, to be erected at the southeast corner of Michigan avenue and Twenty-second street, at an estimated cost of $500,000.

Athletic Club Held Up.
American Athletic club, club house and business building, 16 stories high to be constructed at South parkway and Twenty-fourth street, at an estimated cost of $1,500,000.

Rebuilding of structures to be cut off on the south side of Twenty-second street, between Michigan and La Salle avenues, estimated at $2,000,000.
Rebuilding of structures on the south side of Twenty-second street between Michigan and Prairie avenues, which cannot advantageously be started until the southeast corner of Twenty-second and Cottage Grove avenue is cleared, estimated at $2,500,000.

Some of the interested property owners believe that the one story frame structure, the only one standing on the east part of Twenty-second street at Cottage Grove avenue, is holding up the improvement. That could be wrecked in a day if the city were financially able to proceed.

"This frame structure is in the path of the improvement of both Indiana avenue and of 22d street. It was made a part of the Indiana avenue proceeding, which has not gone along as fast as the other. Technically, it is a blockade to the 22d street improvement, but the underlying cause is a lack of cash. If the court proceedings on Indiana avenue were disposed of the structure would stand until the mayor loosens the city's purse strings."

Bond Issue Was Voted.
Mayor Dever may insist that he has not stopped the work, but these are the facts. A bond issue of $450,000 was voted. A court decision in East St. Louis placed a new interpretation upon the bonding limit of Chicago. Under it the experts reckoned that Chicago could issue $4,000,000 in bonds instead of the $18,000,000. Mayor Dever undertook to trim down the expenditures to be made from the bond issues totaling $18,000,000 and a small amount of nothing was set aside for these two street widenings.

Two Claims Offered.
There are two other stories in the path of progress, but they could be pushed aside if city bond money were made available. No settlement has been made with two property owners in the widening of Indiana avenue. One of these is the Eastman Kodak company at Eighteenth street and the other is the Thomas Wells estate, with a large apartment structure just north of Twenty-second street. Experts are appraising the apparatus in the Eastman structure and will be ready to report next Thursday. The Wells estate is said to value its building at nearly three times the city's figure. A conference is called for next Thursday in the office of President Sloan of the board of local improvements.

The other dispute relates to the cost of moving street car tracks to the middle of the street. A friendly suit to determine this question is pending in court. The widening could proceed without a settlement of this matter.

VILLAGE JUDGES APPROVE CODE TO END SPEED TRAPS

Fix Fee and Fine Scale at Convention.

BY J. L. JENKINS.

Official adoption of a fair play code for enforcement of motor vehicle laws in Cook county, and the complete wiping out of one notorious speed trap marked Chicago's crusade for highway justice yesterday.

Members of the Cook County Justices of the Peace, Magistrates, and Constables' association, meeting in the Capitol building, accepted a detailed outline of legal village court procedure as it came to them from the office of State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe, demanded courtesy for motorists on the part of all arresting officers in the county and ordered a complete code fixing legal fees and fines to be circulated among all village officials.

Markham's Trappers Depart.
Meanwhile detective sergeants from the state's attorney's office, returning village books, reported that Chief Harry Markley, his four motorcycle policemen, and the justice of the peace presiding over the old Markham speed trap had departed, leaving the new Western avenue subdivision safe for motorists.

At the convention, attended by a score of village police officials, the association listened to an outline of the village law violations where the arrest is on view and there can be no immediate trial, the arrested person must put up a bond signed by himself and one bondsman or a cash deposit. The amount of such cash deposit must be indorsed on the bond, and the bond must be approved by a justice of the peace or magistrate and not by the arresting officer.

Hearing Must Be Held.
If the defendant fails to appear for trial, there must be a hearing, and the arresting officer must prove his case as though the defendant were present. Fees in such cases will be $1 for approval of a bond other than cash and $4 dockets fee of $2.

If the defendant appears and does not plead guilty but is found guilty, the justice or magistrate is entitled to a trial fee of $3.

If the defendant is found not guilty, no court costs may be assessed and the deposit will be returned. "These steps are taken to rectify any speed trap evils that may exist, but this association does not recognize such speed traps as exist."

Charles J. Mueller, prosecutor in charge of the speed trap investigation, and Joseph H. Braun of the Chicago Motor club, announced last night that the arrest books of Franklin Park, Schiller Park, Brookfield, Wilmette, Glenview, and Evergreen Park have been subpoenaed for study today. Mr. Mueller also summoned Justice Joseph Wright of Maywood to appear before him again for questioning.

WHEELER DOESN'T WANT ANDREWS' JOB, HE INSISTS

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
Washington, D. C., Aug. 13.—(Special.)—Delayed by yesterday's storm in New York, Brig. Gen. Lincoln C. Andrews, the nation's dry chief, is not expected to arrive in Washington before tomorrow.

During the day Wayne B. Wheeler, general counsel for the Anti-Saloon league, who was suggested in radical dry circles yesterday as a likely candidate for Andrews' post, telegraphed from a Shelby, Mich., chautauqua meeting that he could not and would not accept the appointment if it were offered him.

"It is contrary to the policy of the Anti-Saloon league," said Wheeler, "for an official of the league to accept a political appointment or use the churches which support the league for personal political gain. I am convinced that I can serve the cause of prohibition and its enforcement better in the position I now have."

Wheeler asserted that, even if he were free to accept the appointment, he would not do so until he received assurance that the present system of divided authority in the department would be replaced by a real prohibition enforcement bureau in charge of an officer with real authority.

JUDGE KAVANAGH
PROPOSES NEW
ANTI-GUN LAW
Judge Marcus Kavanagh of the Criminal court, who is a member of the national crime commission, made public yesterday a copy of a gun law which he announced the committee would attempt to have the various legislatures enact within the next few months. The law calls for a ten year embargo on the manufacture and sale of pistols and all firearms of not less than four feet in length.

"No person shall have in his possession, or in premises or rooms controlled by him, any such weapon," reads the proposed law. "Every person so offending shall be imprisoned in the penitentiary not less than one year nor more than five, provided that if any person so offending shall heretofore have been convicted of a felony he shall be imprisoned not less than five years nor more than ten."

The judge, a veteran of the criminal bench, said he believes that passage of such a law throughout the country would greatly reduce crime.

POLICE PLANNING NEW ATTACK TO BREAK UP GANGS

Stegé, Zimmer Keep Details Secret.

CRIMINAL COURT.
Frederick Packard, formerly sentenced to one to fourteen years in the penitentiary by Judge Emanuel Eller.

New police attack against the highly organized bootlegging gangs which have infested Chicago since prohibition was planned by John Stege, acting chief of detectives, yesterday.

The new warfare, in an attempt to curb the murders and street shootings indulged in recently by the gangsters, was announced following a long conference between Deputy Chief Matthew Zimmerman and Stege.

"I will not be ready for action until early next week," Stege said. "I believe we have figured out a scheme that will eliminate at least some of this promiscuous street shooting and some murders."

Hopes for Better Success.
"Our plan may not be a cure-all, but we are going to get somewhere this time. This rough stuff has got to quit," Stege said. "We've got sufficient evidence against Joe Salts to convict him."

Stegé added, "With Salts and four of his principal followers in hiding, and with Frank McElrath, his partner, in jail, the Salts crowd is crippled."

In addition, the McSwiggin murders about shot to pieces the Al Capone faction.

An inkling of the proposed new cleanup of the booze peddlers was seen several days ago with a sudden shifting of patrol squads in certain districts of the south side following the murder of John (Mittler) French, committed, the police assert, by Salts and those in hiding with him.

Also a dozen or more police squads, armed with rifles and tear bombs, have been kept on the move since the shooting affray in Michigan avenue last Wednesday.

Members of the old Capone mob were the aggressors in the Michigan avenue battle against Hyman Weiss, Vincent Drucel, and ten or twelve of their henchmen of the north side gang, Stege said he had learned.

Doesn't Know Cause of Shooting.
"Four of the Capones swooped down in an automobile and scattered all those Weiss-Drucel fellows, except Drucel himself, like chaff before a whirlwind," Stege said, adding that he did not know what all the shooting was about.

SEIZE DEMENTED MAN ABOUT TO ATTACK JARECKI

Paroled Asylum Inmate
Waits with Knife.

Two minutes' delay in an elevator yesterday saved County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki from an attack by a former inmate of the insane asylum at Elgin, who nursed a grievance against the judge as head of the court which ordered him to an asylum two years ago.

Daniel McKee, 35 years old, 1270 North Wood street, was loitering near Judge Jarecki's automobile parked at the Randolph street entrance to the county building when the judge's chauffeur, Joseph Moha, became alarmed at the man's actions and summoned two policemen. McKee fought off the policemen and he was not subdued until Serg. Harry Donnelly and Capt. Charles McGurn and John Prendergast, passing by, joined in the struggle.

Sought to Stab Judge.
Judge Jarecki emerged from the county building just as the policemen seized McKee. The latter, seeing the judge, shouted threats at him. He later declared that it was his intention to stab the judge with a knife which was found on him.

The judge declared that if he had not been delayed in a county building elevator he would probably have been attacked by McKee.

McKee was taken to the psychopathic hospital. In the psychopathic court next week he will be brought before Judge Jarecki, who must determine whether the man should be again placed in an insane asylum.

Ejected from Courtroom.
McKee was sent to the Elgin insane asylum two years ago by Judge Edward M. Mangano. He was paroled a year ago.

Edward Skarda, Judge Jarecki's bailiff, ejected McKee from the county courtroom two weeks ago after the man had been caught acting suspiciously. He was seen several times standing in the corridors outside the County court, where Judge Jarecki sits.

With the completion of this improvement the commissioners have eliminated one of the most dangerous sections of boulevard in the park system.

DROPS DEAD AN HUSBAND FIGHTS.
While her husband, Dennis, and John Lawless, her brother, fought with their fists in their home at 2222 Baltimore avenue, yesterday, Mrs. Anna Kearney, 30 years old, dropped dead of heart disease. The two men had been drinking and had come to blows in the presence of the wife and three young children. Both were arrested.

BEACH RETAINS LEAD AS PLANES REACH WICHITA

Wichita, Kas., Aug. 13.—(AP)—Walter Beach, aviator, raced into his home town today almost eight minutes ahead of L. G. Meister and gained twelve points on him in the contest for the $7,000 Edsel Ford Reliability airplane tour trophy. All the twenty-one planes which left Lincoln this morning at intervals after 10 o'clock successfully completed the 220 mile jump without stopping.

Beach completed the finish line at 11:58 a. m. Meister, who is flying a Buhl-Verville plane, finished at 12:05:55. Vance Breese of Los Angeles, flying a Ryan monoplane, won third place. The planes will take off about 10 o'clock tomorrow morning for Kansas City. It is the eighth leg of the journey and is about 170 miles in an airplane.

Edward Sternaman Freed on Charge of Assault

French, 19 South La Salle street. French said Sternaman struck him and pulled his hat over his eyes when cautioned about smoking in an elevator of the Y. M. C. A. building. "Forgive and forget," was the admonition of Judge Eberhardt to them both.

Court Upholds Referendum in New York on Dry Law

New York, Aug. 13.—[Special.]—Supreme Court Justice Crain today upheld the legality of the state referendum on prohibition. He denied the petition of Mrs. Helen M. Albert, as a taxpayer, for a temporary injunction restraining the board of elections and other city officials from placing the referendum on the ballot at the fall elections.

In a long opinion Justice Crain held that, even though an expression on the subject of prohibition by the people of the state may if literally interpreted be futile, it is not unlawful, and that the statute providing for the referendum is in no sense unconstitutional.

"Its constitutionality," he said, "does not depend upon its utility or futility, its folly or wisdom. It depends upon whether it is, within the constitution of the state, in reality a legislative act, and whether, if it be one, it is in terms outside of the powers conferred upon the legislature."

After a discussion of the prohibition controversy Justice Crain expressed the opinion that "there is excellent reason to believe that the law assailed will in reality serve an important and beneficial end, in that it will be the medium for the ascertainment of the sentiment of the people, not merely on the subject of prohibition, but more specifically on the question as to the modification of the Volstead act."

"The act assailed is an exercise of legislative power because it confers rights and imposes duties which, but for it, would not exist. It gives to the qualified voter a right at a given time and in a prescribed way to indicate his views upon a designated question—a right which, but for it, he would not have."

"The Volstead act is not an unchangeable or unreplicable statute. The power that made it can repeal it. To grant the plaintiff's present application would defeat the commendable purpose of the legislature and run counter to the desires of a vast majority of our people."

COUPLE NARRED IN BOOZE RAID.
Arthur Mack, restaurant owner at 1111 North Franklin street, and his wife, Elizabeth, were arrested yesterday on a charge of violating the prohibition law. Four gallons of alcohol were seized in the raid.

ORION CLEMENS' GHOST SEEMS TO HAUNT KEOKUK

As Cartoon of Brother, Mark Twain.

Touring hither and yon along the Mississippi, where it touches Illinois and Iowa, we hear in story 19 of The Tribune's Chicagoan pilgrimages yarns about this and that—and the other.

BY JAMES O'DONNELL BENNETT.
"Mother," said one of Mrs. Felix Hughes' sons on an evening when we were sitting together on the heights that overlook the great river at Keokuk, "just what was Orion Clemens' occupation when he lived here?"
Mrs. Hughes, mother of rampant, romantic, rebel Rupert and of Felix the singer and of Howard the now gone inventor, replied in her tentative way, "Why, he was a kind of a lawyer, wasn't he?"
Felix the singer laughed and patted the lady's hand. "Mother," said he, "you've hit it. That's just the kind of a lawyer he was!"

Brother of Mark Twain.
From Hannibal to Muscatine, which is 120 miles as the crow flies, you hear more stories about Orion Clemens, who was Mark Twain's elder brother, than you hear about Chief Keokuk or Mr. Justice Miller. Keokuk lawyer, whom President Lincoln appointed to the United States Supreme court and whom men called "the greatest constitutional lawyer since Joseph Story," or even about Mark himself.

Orion died 29 years ago, but his memory, like many of his intellectual stirrings, still is green. Old men will say to you as you yarn along with them about him, "He was the darndest fool and the honestest man I ever knew!"
He lived in several towns along the west bank of the river, and in each and every one of them he became the crowned specimen of village idiot. But village philosopher and village helper also; at everybody's beck and call, and as printer, editor, lawyer, chicken raiser, and what not—mostly what not—more eager to serve mankind free than for price. He could write, too; helped Mark in the composition of "Roughing It," and was a fluent, forcible speaker.

Not Entirely a Fool.
The keenest deprivation Mark Twain inflicted on a world that treated him well was not putting Orion into a book. Orion was willing, and once, only a few days before his death in Keokuk, knowing the general scheme of a tale his brother had on the stocks, he wrote him, "I would fit in as a fool character." Then he went on to sketch the kind of fool he was, but not all fool, he pleaded, and offered this precious passage in extenuation of many foibles:

"When a farmer took my father's offer for some chickens 'under advisement' till the next day, I said to myself, 'Would Napoleon Bonaparte have taken under advisement till the next day an offer to sell him some chickens?'"
For putters—like me—there is sharp chastisement in that.

His Famous Church Report.
One of the classic Keokuk stories about Orion concerns the written report he made when he was treasurer of the Congregational church. Big Bill Sage of the State Central Savings bank and the Iowa State Insurance Company Mutual—second oldest insurance company west of the Mississippi; founded 1855—told it to me and swears it's true. "This short," Orion rose in meeting and submitted his annual report as church treasurer. It ran:

Receipts, $1,827.34.
Expenditures, $1,795.76.
Balance, $31.58.
"Ain't got it. Must have spent it."

Another time Orion's wife, going away for the day, warned him she was leaving his midday meal on a plate in the pantry. She also left on a lower shelf a pan of dough that was to rise in due time.
Luncheon Seemed Heavy.
Returning at night she asked, "Did you find your lunch?"
"Yes."
"Was it all right?"
"Yes—except, well, it seemed kind of heavy."

Once Orion, financed by Mark, started a chicken farm in Keokuk, selling to the citizenry for $1.25 a pair of fowls that it cost $1.60 a pair to raise. The experiment lasted two years, at the end of which it had cost Mark $4,000. Then he closed out and shut up.
I said Mark never put moon, dreamy, loony, fanciful, saintly Orion in a book. Well, he did sketch him in one—his posthumous "Autobiography"—and the sketching, which starts at page 238 of the second volume of that vast work and is resumed in 6-page lots from time to time, is beautifully and tenderly and yet most comically done.

Marked by Eagerness.
"In all my seventy years," says the younger brother concerning Orion's personality, "I have not met a twin of it. . . . One of his characteristics was eagerness. He woke with eagerness about some matter or other every morning; it consumed him all day; it perished in the night. . . . Throughout his long life he was always trading religious and enjoying."

the change of scenery. . . . Except in the matter of grounded principles he was as unstable as water. . . . It had been his habit for a great many years to change his religion with his shirt. . . . He never lost a cent for anybody, and never made one for himself. . . . And he was beloved all his life in whatever community he lived."

Orion married a Keokuk girl after she had given walking papers to a Quincy, Ill., girl to whom Orion had simultaneously engaged himself. About the wife Mark once released this gem: "She was a good woman, but her vanity was pretty large and inconvenient."

Caricature of Famous Brother.
The value of Orion—name pronounced by our Keokuk neighbors, and by the Clemens family, with the accent on the first syllable instead of on the second as in the name of the constellation for which he was christened—the value of him, I think, to us lovers of letters and of human nature is that he was Mark himself in caricature, and caricature, as Miss Jessie Loftus and Miss Elsie Janis have often shown us, is a valid and valuable method of criticism—literary or otherwise.

There is a Mark Twain shrine in Keokuk. Big Bill Sage, who affects to be a fifteen minute egg—hard as that—devised it when he and Judge Logan had to remodel and enlarge the old building at 202 Main street in which Orion and Mark were setting type 70 years ago. In the handsome directors' room of the remodeled structure Mr. Sage—do you catch that "Mister"? Brother William?—Mr. Sage has hung the priceless portrait in oils of Mark which shows him at the age of 22. In it he wears a winged collar, and a stock, and auburn locks and side whiskers! The face that later became so leonine is here heavy and stodgy.

His Attack on Roosevelt.
On the third floor of the building, near the spot where Mark used to set type, are displayed the printer's case at which the great man worked and his composing stick, and over the case hangs, framed, that withering interview on Theodore Roosevelt which he gave THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE in March, 1908—the blast containing the phrase, "this shabby charlatan" and prophesying what the colonel, whom Mark loathed, would do "after he has done hunting other wild animals heroically in Africa with the safeguards of a park of artillery and the advertising equipment of a brass band."

However, we must push on from Keokuk, although I could write another book about it which I think would interest you—so many interesting people and things did I encounter there. But THE TRIBUNE's last admonition to me was, "Now, don't settle in any of these towns, nor disappear the way you did in Roumania."

So, reluctantly, I push on. I liked companionable Keokuk; felt at home there, especially after I heard that one-half its families take THE TRIBUNE. Then they seemed just like good neighbors—and so they are.

Remove the Important Cause of Old Age!

A Health Sustaining Food

Too small to be seen by the naked eye, the tiny Acidophilus plants grown in milk, possess the surprising power to displace the germs that cause food decay in the digestive tract.

These health-preserving, youth-prolonging, microscopic plants thus successfully combat the cause of one of the most persistent sources of internal poisoning. The countless germs that cause food decay cannot exist where Acidophilus holds the upper hand. Thus the poisonous products of putrefaction are no longer manufactured to be absorbed into the blood for transportation to every living cell of the body.

Ideal surroundings for the growth of these tiny Acidophilus plants are found in certified milk, which, when cultivated with these plants, result in a delightful, health-sustaining food.

In a single bottle of Acidophilus milk are billions of growing Acidophilus plants, fresh as any vegetable just taken from a garden.

The value of the Acidophilus plant as a fearless enemy of internal poisoning has not long been known to man. Only in recent years has modern science succeeded in isolating it, thus making possible its individual growth and cultivation free from all retarding factors.

Produced by Brook Hill Laboratories

The human body has the power to rebuild itself as usage tears it down. Yet at the age of fifty you will no longer be able to do the many things that required no effort at sixteen.

Poisoned muscles and poisoned nerves make the difference.

The purest, cleanest food after it is eaten, ordinarily becomes the cause of internal poisoning before it leaves the body. This is due to food decay, putrefaction caused by injurious bacteria that inhabit the digestive tract.

But science only recently has perfected, in the form of a delightful food, Acidophilus Milk, an effective way to combat this universal enemy. Get a bottle at Walgreen's today.

CATHOLICS RALLY TO FIERY INDIAN BISHOP IN MEXICO

Government Takes Over All Mines.

BY JOHN CORNYN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.] Mexico City, Aug. 13.—The Catholics are responding to the genius for organization of the archbishop of Toluca, Sr. Pascual Diaz, who seems to be driving ahead, fearless of the consequences, in his struggle against the restrictions of the Calles government. Owing to the ill health, frailty and age of Archbishop Jose Mora y Del Rio, Sr. Diaz has become the natural church leader, to whom all look. He is extending the Catholic organization to the ends of Mexico. A full-blooded Indian, he is a man of magnetic personality, capable of doing the work of a dozen men.

Sr. Diaz has developed notable press agent ability. He has never found it necessary to make the same move twice. From the office of the episcopate streams of campaign literature and circulars pour forth daily to the Catholics as well as reports to the press. Virtually all of these Sr. Diaz drafts himself and besides on his shoulders falls much of the work of Archbishop Mora y Del Rio of Mexico, incapacitated by illness.

Won't Try Archbishop. The government has decided not to prosecute Archbishop Mora y Del Rio on a charge of the minister of interior that he remarks in an interview with an American newspaper correspondent violated the constitutional provision forbidding priests to criticize the government.

The American ambassador, James R. Sheffield, is leaving Mexico City tonight. He will sail from Vera Cruz tomorrow for the United States. During his visit he will meet Secretary Kellogg and President Coolidge, and it is understood he will lay the whole Mexican case before them.

Mexico Takes Over Mines. Mexico City, Aug. 13.—(P)—The government officially has published regulations making effective the new mining law which gives the government supervision over numerous details of the mining industry, in which hundreds of millions in American dollars are invested.

The law declares that all commercially valuable minerals and precious stones are the property of the nation, including coal, which had not been so declared by previous laws. The previously enacted petroleum law makes petroleum the property of the nation. American mining men will be more or less at sea until the laws have been interpreted and actually applied. Apparently existing concessions will be affirmed or new concessions issued to cover such grants, although hereafter foreign corporations under no circumstances can obtain such mining concessions. Foreign individuals may obtain concessions only by waiving the protection of their home governments, in so far as their Mexican investments are concerned.

Provides Heavy Fines. The new laws cover with great detail the granting and management of mining concessions. An elaborate system of inspection and supervision by government agents is set up. Heavy fines will follow failure to comply with the various requirements. Concessions will be forfeited unless a stipulated amount of work is done on them. In granting new concessions to all kinds of preference will be given to Mexican citizens. It is required by the new laws that 90 per cent of the workers of any mining concessions must be Mexican citizens and that 50 to 90 per cent of the technical forces, such as engineers and chemists, shall be Mexicans.

ASK INTERVENTION

Washington, D. C., Aug. 13.—(Special.)—James A. Flaherty, supreme knight of the Knights of Columbus, and D. J. Callahan, supreme treasurer, today discussed with Secretary of State Kellogg the religious conflict between the Catholic church and the Calles government in Mexico. The knights' officials presented to the secretary the resolution passed last week in Philadelphia by the supreme convention of the order calling upon the United States to put an immediate end to the alleged mistreatment and expulsion of American Catholics in Mexico by the government of that country.

Decline to Make Comment. Although the conference lasted for nearly an hour, neither Secretary Kellogg nor Mr. Flaherty would discuss what took place beyond saying that the petition had been received and filed in the state department.

Secretary Kellogg and Mr. Flaherty both declined to comment on the status of the petition. It is generally understood that the K. of C. leader was told that the United States cannot deviate from its policy of noninterference in the purely domestic affairs of another nation.

Secretary to See President. Secretary Kellogg left Washington today for New York, and on Monday and Tuesday will visit President Coolidge at White Pine camp and lay before him all information assembled by the state department on the status of American relations with Mexico. After his conference with the secretary, Mr. Flaherty was asked about an item published in a news letter of a Masonic organization criticizing Catholicism for becoming involved over the situation in Mexico, while not protesting about the suppression of Masonic temples in Italy.

The difference in the two situations is that, Mr. Flaherty said, Italy is several thousand miles away, while Mexico is just across the border. Besides, we do not maintain any affiliated organizations in Italy, and we have been in Mexico.

MEXICO SEIZES YANKEES' LANDS; SCORNS U. S. PACT

Fails to Live Up to Payment Terms.

BY JOHN CLAYTON.

(Staff Correspondent of The Tribune, who has returned to Chicago after a month's investigation in Mexico.)

Recognition by the United States of the Obregon government in Mexico, the embargo on arms which has kept the Obregon-Calles junta in power since that time, and the reestablishment of diplomatic relations with "America's Balkans" resulted from the Warren-Payne-Ross-Roa agreement, completed in August of 1923 and ratified early in 1924.

This agreement, which has been consistently disregarded by both the Obregon and Calles governments, provided that while the United States did not recognize the principle of expropriation of private property, it did admit the de facto existence of expropriation in Mexico under the agrarian law. The agreement provided ways and means of payment.

Agree on Payments for Land. An exchange of views, which became part and parcel of the agreement, followed. A proposal of the American commissioners, which the Mexican commissioners accepted, provided that in view of the conditions in which Mexico found herself the American government would consider the question of payment in bonds for lands expropriated from American citizens for ejidos (parcels of land given peasants for cultivation) not exceeding a certain area. This area was fixed at 1,755 hectares (about 4,400 acres), and payment would be accepted at the taxable valuation of the property in bonds bearing five per cent interest.

It was later agreed that such payment must be made within thirty days from the time of seizure (or if seizure antedated the settlement from the date of ratification) or the land returned to the owner. If the land was not returned it was also agreed that any property seized in excess of 1,755 hectares would be paid for in cash at a fair market valuation within thirty days from the date of seizure or the land returned.

It was also agreed that land could only be expropriated for ejidos for existing villages, i. e., that new villages could not be formed to take up land, and that only bona fide residents of the villages at the time of seizure or of the ratification of the agreement could be considered as entitled to ejidos.

American Claims Ignored. When Mr. Warren and Judge Payne placed their signatures at the foot of these agreements and when Congress ratified them and they were signed by President Coolidge, Americans believed that Obregon and the government to follow his would respect the terms. It was fondly hoped that payment in bonds—even though only a fraction of the true value of the land and not convertible for forty years—would be forthcoming. Those who had lost land in excess of the legalized 4,400 acres expected to obtain cash or the return of their lands.

But such is not the case. From the beginning the Mexican government has ignored American claims, and until now not one cent in cash or bonds has been paid, although the agreement was signed more than two years ago. Since its signature more than 1,000,000 acres have been taken from Americans. In all there are more than 500 cases on record with the state department and the claims commission. Others have not even been filed. They involve several million acres. The largest seizure I know of included 220,000 acres in the Rio Grande valley; the smallest hardly more than 1,000 acres.

Villages Made to Order.

Despite the agreement that no new villages would be organized to claim ejidos this action has been taken on several large American ranches. There have also been cases of American industrial property seized, state and municipal debts dishonored and mining property taken. In view of the fact that most of the cases with which I am familiar are before the claims commission, I have been requested by representatives of the injured parties and by American officials not to disclose names, as the disclosure might work a financial hardship and expose the claimants to physical reprisals on the part of the government. In none of the cases I will cite has the title been questioned by the Mexican government.

American Loses $22,000,000.

The tract of 220,000 acres of land recently seized was owned by an American citizen, resident of a mid-western city, with clear title obtained long before the promulgation of the constitution of 1917. In order to claim this rich farming land for ejidos three villages, each of 500 population, were established. The villages were settled after the signature of the Warren-Payne agreement and its ratification. The best of the land was taken by

MICHIGAN U. FRESHIES BARRED FROM OWNING OR OPERATING AUTOS

Ann Arbor, Mich., Aug. 13.—(P)—

Drastic limitation of the use of automobiles by students at the University of Michigan will go into effect at the beginning of the fall term, it was revealed in letters mailed out today to parents and guardians of students.

The regulations prohibit the ownership or operation of cars by students entering the university this fall as freshmen. At the beginning of the second semester the regulations are to be extended to include sophomores. The action is the result of abuses of the automobile privileges by some members of the student body.

these villages, and the rest was claimed by railway workers.

The entire tract of 220,000 acres, representing $22,000,000 in value, was confiscated. No payment has been made, nor has the land been returned. Representations were made by the owner's attorney several months ago, without satisfaction. The case has not been placed before the claims commission because the owner feels it would be a waste of time.

An American, operating not far from Mexico City, owned two farms, one of 50,000 and one of 25,000 acres. His properties were considered among the finest farms in Mexico. His laborers were well paid and well housed. Of this land 62,000 acres, all under crops, were seized months ago and no offer of payment had been made. The land is worth $200 an acre. The 10,000 acres remaining to the man are surrounded by ejidos, he is without means of access or egress, and the only way he can reach his land is by airplane.

Another American citizen with lands in the Rio Grande district lost 11,000 acres, his entire property. The seizure was made in the summer of 1924. There has been no payment of any sort, either in cash or bonds.

Take Live Stock with Land. Another American has 100 acres left of a ranch of 20,000 acres valued at $100 an acre. His shepherds were taken prisoners by the local agrarians and $25 head of stock seized with the land in February, 1925. This man was one of the recognized leaders in welfare work for the Mexican people, and had spent large sums of money in giving them decent homes and proper schools. He received no compensation for his land.

The tale is endless, but every case is interesting as a commentary on violated American rights. In all I have picked about twenty cases at random, and will detail some of them in another article.

PRESIDENT AND HOOVER STUDY FARM AID PLANS

Extension of Credits the Principal Means.

Paul Smiths, N. Y., Aug. 13.—(Special.)—Farm aid measures were discussed by President Coolidge and Secretary of Commerce Hoover today, it was stated at the executive office this afternoon.

Specifically they discussed plans for organizing the various agencies for extending farm credits, such as the banks, the insurance companies, and the mortgage loan concerns into a centralized body capable of furnishing cheap credit to agriculture wherever special conditions make such assistance necessary.

One of the objects of the President in summoning Mr. Hoover was to survey the business situation and see what could be done to improve conditions in the "weak spots" on the prosperity map.

Reports Conditions Stronger. The commerce secretary reported that business conditions are generally stronger than ever before, the only lagging being noted in agriculture, textiles, and, to some extent, in bituminous coal mining. Building construction this year is 15 per cent ahead of last year.

Mr. Hoover has been assisting in making readjustments in the cotton spinning industry which have produced an improved situation noted in the last six weeks. Prices for agricultural products are improving, the weak spots in the agricultural industry being chiefly those in which drought has affected crops. Mr. Hoover advised the President that there is room for improving the credit facilities open to farmers despite all the legislation there has been on this subject. Numerous credit agencies have been created, but they still fall short of adequate financial aid to the farmer in the production and marketing of his products.

Will Confer With Bankers. With the approval of the President, Mr. Hoover will confer with bankers and other loan agencies in the corn and wheat belts on the question of organizing more effective farm credit instruments.

The United States is more than holding its own in competition with other countries in foreign commerce, according to the information the President obtained from Mr. Hoover. This is due to the increasing demand for our manufactured products abroad. The foreign commerce of European nations and of the world, Mr. Hoover reported, is now about the same in volume as before the war. British foreign trade has gained slightly while German and French has decreased. American exports, however, are 55 per cent and the value in dollars was less than before the war.

Exports U. S. Bails of Strength. The balance of trade in our favor was less in the last fiscal year than the year before for two reasons. The price of wheat exported was lower so that the value in dollars was less. The cost of rubber imported was higher so that the value in dollars was larger. That made the difference between exports value and imports value less.

Our exports of manufactured articles, however, increased twelve per cent, indicating that we must look to our manufactures to maintain our position in world trade.

PLANS READY FOR NEW FIRE HOUSES; WILL BUILD SOON

Plans and specifications for three new fire stations, the first of thirty to be built with bonds voted last April, are finished and ready for the building contractors. Fire Commissioner Joseph P. Connerly announced yesterday.

Each of the new two-story structures will cost $25,000. They will house truck companies Nos. 21, 24, and 25, located respectively at 1529 Belmont avenue, 10400 Vincennes avenue, and 4002 Wilcox street. Construction will probably start in two or three weeks.

"We need these stations badly and are anxious to see them completed and in use as soon as possible," said Mr. Connerly. "Plans for the others will be rushed through and they will be built in order of their urgency. We hope to have them all finished within two years."

Funds for the construction program will be drawn from the $1,401,000 appropriation made when the department bond issues by the council June 30. The appropriation also included $200,000 for fireboats, one of which is to be purchased at once, and $204,000 for permanent repairs to existing stations.

Fetz was known as a skater, a football player, and golfer. The accident occurred five years ago and the judgment was entered three years ago.

VALUE COUNTY'S PERSONALTY AT $1,400,000 LESS

Assessors Cut Total to $473,420,230.

The board of assessors has decided that personal property in Cook county is worth $1,467,838 less in 1926 than they valued it in the preceding year, according to official figures released yesterday.

A statement prepared by Charles Finger, secretary of the board, offered comparisons of the new figures with the valuations set by the board of review in 1925. This would show an increase in valuation of $60,776,316 for the county's property.

Grand Total Shows Drop. But the grand total of $473,420,230 compares with the total of $474,888,128 set by the board of assessors in 1925. The board of review usually cuts the board of assessors' valuations by seventy-five millions or thereabouts. Thus, those acquainted with the situation pointed out, the county probably will receive less revenue in personal property taxes this year.

The greatest increase in the valuations was for the South Town district which includes the loop. The board of review last year set a valuation of $192,467,073 on personal property in this district. The board of assessors raised that value to $216,235,066 for this year.

Hyde Park Valuation Lower. In contrast, the Hyde Park district was given a lower valuation. The board of review's valuation last year was $38,660,755. The board of assessors decided that personal property in that section is now worth only $37,809,320. That figure in turn will be slashed by the board of review this fall when it hears complaints from property owners.

One of the interesting increases was in Oak Park. Far behind Evanston in the board of review's valuations for 1925, it leaped ahead of the other suburbs in the new figures. The valuation of personal property in Oak Park was raised from $5,321,902 to $5,522,146. In Evanston it was raised from $4,745,435 to $5,089,329.

The figures show the assessed values, which are one-half the full values.

American Offers Hungary Millions in Building Loan

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Aug. 12.—The Spanish Prince Louis of Bourbon has arrived here with an American named Gardner, a representative of an American finance group, offering a building loan of several million dollars. The cabinet is investigating the proposal.

EUROPE BUILDS NEW ALLIANCES; LEAGUE TOTTERS

France, Spain and Italy Sign Up Allies.

(Copyright, 1926, By the New York Times.) PARIS, Aug. 13.—Quietly and in most cases secretly, all those countries in Europe that live in fear of war have been since spring preparing themselves against the possibility of a breakdown of the moral authority of the league of nations in September.

That is the explanation of the succession of treaties which have been and are being negotiated, of which the two most important are the Italo-Spanish treaty and the treaty between Roumania and France. A third, which is not yet concluded, is projected between France and Yugoslavia.

The treaty making movement began immediately after the special session at Geneva, when Germany was to have been admitted as a permanent member of the council and when nothing was accomplished because of the claims of Spain, Brazil, and Poland to similar honor. Despite the efforts to modify the attitude of the various nations, it is admitted in diplomatic circles that the situation has changed little since March and next month's assembly meeting will have to face the same problem with little prospect of a solution.

Spain Offers Biggest Obstacle. Now that Brazil is out of the league it is Spain which presents the greatest obstacle. Gen. Primo de Rivera, the Spanish premier, has publicly taken an attitude from which it is difficult for him to retreat. There is too close a connection between Spain's new treaty with Italy and her position with regard to the league for the French, at least, to eye the situation with suspicion.

It has been no secret for a long time that Premier Mussolini's attitude toward the league is not any too warm. For him, as for many others, the covenant is rather in the nature of a cloak, to be worn for protection and perhaps concealment, and not as an article of faith.

France Signs Up Several Allies.

When one comes to examine France's position and attitude there is a difference, but this is a difference of caution rather than of faith. To the protection of the covenant she has added her treaties with Belgium, Poland, Czechoslovakia, and Roumania, and is now seeking another with Yugoslavia. In a larger scale, Locarno may be added to the list.

All these treaties are "within the spirit of the league," but the fact that they are considered necessary impresses persons here as implying more faith in concrete alliances than in the covenant. Just as Spain and Italy, France has prepared her position against the failure of Geneva to be more than a cloak.

TAKEN TO JOLIET

ROBERT SCOTT.

Robert Scott, whose brother Russell Scott is waiting to be hanged, was taken from the county jail yesterday to the penitentiary to start serving his life term for his part in the murder of Joseph Maurer, clerk in the City Hall pharmacy. He arrived at the old penitentiary with 10 other prisoners and soon after became convict 950.

Scott, who was handcuffed to James Reno, a gunman sentenced to serve 10 years to life, did not have an opportunity to say good-by to his brother, who will be hanged in the fall unless the Supreme court or governor interferes with the verdict of a jury.

KING OF BULGARS ASKS CZECH AID IN BALKAN ROW

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

VIENNA, Austria, Aug. 13.—King Boris of Bulgaria, who arrived at Ploest, a resort city in Czechoslovakia, with a high official of the Bulgarian foreign office, conferred with his father, former King Ferdinand, yesterday for several hours.

King Boris then went to Polczany to see President Thomas Masaryk, who is vacationing there. The foreign minister of Czechoslovakia, Dr. Eduard Benes, was called from another resort to attend the conference. King Boris is believed to have asked Czechoslovakia to intervene in its quarrel with Yugoslavia.

New Clash on Border.

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, Aug. 13.—Another Bulgarian comitad raid was reported from the Serbian-Bulgarian frontier today. The comitad invaded d-Jugo-Slavian territory near the Bela Surez mountains. Losing their men in the fight, the bandits ran to Serbian frontier posts at Dobropolje.

TWO SWEDISH COPS KEEP BULGARS, GREEKS AT PEACE

500 Mile Beat's Tough, but Scenery's Grand.

BY FLOYD GIBBONS.

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Aug. 13.—League of nations policemen in the sky blue uniforms of the Swedish army will figure in Bulgaria's reply to the joint protest note served on the Sofia government by Yugoslavia, Roumania, and Greece. The Sofia foreign office expresses its inability to understand Greece's adherence to the joint protest, because the Bulgarian-Greek frontier since last February has been under the surveillance of two Geneva policemen, who report that all is well along their 200 mile beat across the rugged Macedonian mountains.

Col. Syfvert of the royal Swedish army is the league of nations' policeman assigned to watch the Greek-Bulgarian frontier from the Bulgarian side, and his brother officer, Col. Lindl, patrols the border from the Greek side. Their job is to dissuade the Greek and Bulgarian frontier outposts from taking pot shots at one another just to relieve the monotony of their military duty.

Beat 500 Miles Long. "A policeman's lot is never a happy one," Col. Syfvert told The Tribune. "But this job is not bad. My frontier beat is 200 miles long, but considering the valleys and mountain ridges, miles high, and the twisting mule trails, the trip from one end to the other amounts to 500 miles. I travel by horse and mules, with a small escort of Bulgarian officers and men, and sleep out in tents all the time, frequently in snow storms and fog above the clouds. There are no rail or motor roads and few villages. It is the wildest country imaginable, but beautiful."

Col. Syfvert and Col. Lindl frequently cross the line to consult with examine frontier posts on both sides. They often recommend that posts be moved back from one another, out of rifle range, to remove from the lonely sentinel the temptation to pick off a sentinel on the opposite peak. The league policemen have reported no incidents to Geneva since May, when four men were killed in a bandit raid which had no international significance.

A Tough Job. Geneva's policemen, whose expenses are paid by Sofia and Athens, have been on the job since February, when the league's investigation of the Greek invasion of Bulgaria last October resulted in the award of $100,000 to Bulgaria. Bulgaria and Greece both agreed to Geneva's proposal to assign two neutral army officers to maintain peace on the frontier. Col. Syfvert and Col. Lindl have two years more to patrol the hardest, longest, and maybe the toughest beat in the world.

Toasty grains, steam puffed to 8 times their normal size, then richly toasted.

They taste like toasted nuts, crunch in the mouth like fresh toast and supply the vital energy elements of rich wheat.

Tastes different, looks different, is different from other cereal foods—proves food that's "good" for you can be wonderfully delicious, too.

Edna Ferber and
"Show Boat" Due
for Praise Friday

By Fanny Butcher.

"Show Boat," by Edna Ferber.
[Doubleday Page.]Next Friday will be a great day for the admirers of Edna Ferber. August 20 has been marked on the calendar of all of them for some time.
On that day
"Show Boat" will be published. And there will be loud huzzas and much unmistakable ballyhooing.Edna Ferber had the hardest task this twenty year author when she wrote "Show Boat." The public which adores "So Big"—which takes any novel passionately to its heart and makes it a spectacular best seller—demands a new book from Edna Ferber, or by any author whom it treasures in that fashion, a duplicate of the book which intrigued them so violently. The author always has to face the yearnings of his or her public, and if he is a weak sister—either male or female—he is liable to try another tale much after the fashion of his gold mine. If he is an artist, he just plows ahead and sows the seed that he wants to be golden, but has his doubts—and justly.One author that I can think of and that I won't mention has written the same book over and over for "nigh onto twenty years" come Michaelmas.
It's the easiest thing to do. Miss Ferber was pilled more thoroughly than most authors when she was given the Fulbright prize. It would not have been at all unusual if she had written another story of a strong moral character buffeted by fate. But Miss Ferber's new novel is a child in quite another sense of "So Big."You remember the first part of "So Big," the part where Gellins' father lived his days and nights around a gambling table. Those were the days that were responsible for "Show Boat" in digging up material for her then Miss Ferber found a wealth of colorful stuff that hadn't been used and that was just a palate full for her.
Then quite casually one night while they were rehearsing "Mink," Winthrop Ames said something about a show boat that was on the Mississippi, and out of a clear sky the whole tale sprang, full armed, like Minerva from the head of Jove.And it is with those perfectly gorgeous materials that Miss Ferber has made the successor to "So Big," a book as colorful and gaudy and brass bandy and thrilling as "So Big." It pale as the brown of earth and as quiet as a hushed prairie farm.Any one who feared that the successor to "So Big" would be another
"So Big" is wrong.Snowshoe Olds

Belloc's Papers on Napoleon Strategy
Put in Book Form

"Napoleon's Campaign of 1815 and the Retreat from Moscow," by Hilaire Belloc. [Harpers.]

Fourteen years ago Hilaire Belloc made a thorough study of the disastrous campaign of 1815 while he was on the spot of his investigations, published them in the Pall Mall Gazette, and that was the end of them. They have been gathered into book form and now appear thus for the first time.

The papers form an interesting and illuminating study of the greatest strategic military movement of history up to the time of the great war, great, that is, in the size of the armies concerned. In 1812 and even in 1912 when the papers were written strategy was still two dimensional—action in the air was unpredictable. The history of that campaign is written from the point of view of a student to whom the laws of strategy were still im-mutable.

"Of Many Things," by Otto H. Kahn [Boni &amp; Liveright].

Otto Kahn is an outstanding figure in American life. If it weren't for that fact there would be no reason on earth for publishing a collection of his speeches and utterances, for in themselves they were not worth preserving with fanfare or trumpets. The opera is not the only concern of Mr. Kahn, although what he has to say about it is of more interest than almost anything else he discusses. It is one of the deductions of the admirers of wealth that the golden kings are omniscient.

England Eager for Birth Control Play
Banned on StageBy Sidney Dark.
[English Critic.]LONDON.—[Special Correspondence.]—Mrs. Marie Stopes is the most strident of English advocates of birth control, and her enthusiasm has involved her in expensive litigation with orthodox Catholic doctors. Incidentally, it has inspired a birth control play which the censor has not unna-
tionally refused to license for stage performance. Mrs. Stopes has, however, published this play, with a compulsive introduction. The introduction is readable; the play—it is called "Vec-tia," is just the sort of thing that might be expected, the trial of a beautiful woman with a husband incapable of fatherhood—not immoral, but sloppy to nastiness. Doubtless, it will sell for Mrs. Stopes has an immense public in this country, where birth control has become a favorite subject of after dinner conversation.Dr. Inge, dean of St. Paul's and one of the most industrious and versatile of English writers, is publishing a volume with the comprehensive title,
"England." It will not be cheerful book. It is, indeed, Dr. Inge's particular mission to prove that an Englishman can be every bit as gloomy as the gravest of Russians. He is persuaded that his country is on the down grade and that the days of her greatness have passed and it would seem, if my information is correct, that Trotsky will read the new volume with exceeding pleasure.In his "Russian Literature: 1812-1925," Prince Mirsky, a distinguished Russian scholar who has lived in England since the revolution, complains that the English [and I presume the American] public has decided what it wants from a Russian writer and will accept nothing else. "Gloom, depression, hopelessness" are the expected qualities and no Russian, who is gay and full of faith, has a chance of securing an Anglo-Saxon public. Consequently our knowledge of Russian literature is still very limited and many considerable writers are unknown both in London and Chicago.It may be remembered that certain passages in Shane Leslie's cleverly written novel, "The Canals," were severely censured by the authorities of the Roman Catholic church, of which Mr. Leslie is a well known member, and that he very humbly expressed his penitence and withdrew his book from circulation. A new edition is now in the press with the offending passages ex-punged and with an explanatory introduction.The first chapters of the Earl of Oxford and Asquith's "Fifty Years of Parliament" are appearing serially.
The deal with the long ago of 1848 and are not very thrilling. There is no man so dead as a dead politician.

Mrs. Howard Shaw and Daughter on Trip About Great Lakes

BY NANCY R.

I wonder if the trip about the great lakes which Mrs. Howard Shaw is just completing, will inspire her to write another of her snappy magazine articles. Do you remember the one that resulted from her voyage, in company with several of our adventurous citizens, down the Mississippi? It caused no end of flattering comment. It proved, too, that this versatile and charming lady can take the most everyday events and dress them up in the garments that promote intrigue and intrigue.

She set off on her lake journey recently in company with her youngest daughter, Frances Theodora, whom her mother claims is as delightful a traveling companion as she could ask, although she isn't yet fourteen. This time Frances Theodora has always been known as Sister Bill, but because she's shot up into young girlhood with such startling rapidity this summer, her youthful nickname blis fair to be discarded, and we'll all have to get used to calling her by her whole dignified name. There are still chuckles in the air over the fact that on a yacht-party not long ago, in Lake Erie, the beaux paid Sister Bill no little attention, and even offered her a cigarette, never dreaming that she was only "half past thirteen."

Mrs. John T. McDermott, the eldest of the three Shaw sisters, who are spending the last fortnight up at Ephraim, whither she and her young son, Jack, went for a visit with Mrs. James Field (Amy Walker who was). They were due to arrive in Lake Erie last evening, unless the lure of the cool and informal northern resort proved too inviting. And while the remainder of the family roams, the Clay Judsons (Mrs. Judson is the former Sylvia Shaw) and their two children are looking after things at Jagdale, Mrs. Shaw's Lake Forest ménage, and enjoying a peaceful summer there.

Day's News in Society

For the Chicago sojourners along the Massachusetts shore, the most interesting of the season. Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Leiter have been doing quite a bit of entertaining during the polo matches at the Fredrick H. Prince Jr. place at Wenham, and during the yacht races at Marblehead this week. The attendees on the latter has been the largest in ten years.

Thomas Leiter, the Leiter's young son, is adding polo to his list of activities in the sport line. He already is a capable yachtsman and a tennis player of skill. Miss Nancy Leiter also goes for tennis and riding. The boys will show ponies at the coming horse show of the Myopia Hunt club.

Mrs. Ira Nelson Morris of Eagle Head, Manchester, has sailed for Europe after a long season on the north shore, and will join Mr. Morris for a month's stay in Europe. Miss Constance Morris has returned from England and is at Manchester with Mr. and Mrs. Ira Nelson Morris.

Mrs. Richard T. Crane Jr. of 1550 Lake Shore drive, is among the cup donors for the annual midsummer flower show of the North Shore Horticultural society, to be held Aug. 24-26 at Beverly. The show has one of the largest entries in many seasons, and the gardenists this year will have wonderfully attractive exhibits, owing to the unusually cool summer.

Miss Lee Higginson, who is spending the summer at the estate of her parents, the George Higginsons at Lenox, Mass., gave a dinner last week for Mr. and Mrs. Darrow Bruce Felt of Chicago. Miss Higginson is at Newport as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Dorothy Higgins, going over especially for tennis week, the week-end peak of the season at Newport. Miss Higginson and Miss Fanny Wickes defeated Mrs. Guy Fairfax Cary and Mrs. R. Livingston Beckman on Tuesday in the second round of the women's doubles handicap.

Tennis also is claiming its share of attention at Bar Harbor this week. Mrs. William McCormick Blair and John De Boven Boven have been playing in the mixed doubles there this week, during the fifth international maritime tennis tournament.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Curtis of Lake Forest, who returned recently from a stay in Europe, are giving a large dinner this evening.

James Lawrence Brees and Miss Louise Brees of Lake Forest are spending a fortnight at Southampton, L. I., with Mr. Brees's sister, Mrs. Lawrence McKeever Brees.

Mr. and Mrs. John Gibbons Miller of 25 East Walton place, have returned from New York, where they have spent a fortnight with their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert McLean Purdy.

Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Harper of 1363 Hyde Park boulevard have left for a motor trip to Yellowstone, Estes park, and Denver.

NEW YORK SOCIETY

New York, Aug. 13.—[Special.]—Miss Elsie Barber, who has been spending the summer with her mother, Mrs. Elsie Barber, at Sunny Side, Greenwich, Conn., leaves tomorrow for a trip through the west. Before returning to New York she will visit her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Hoffman, at Santa Barbara, Cal.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Scott Rokenbaugh have Mrs. Cornelia Wagstaff as their guest at Villa Avalon, Sayville, L. I.

Mrs. Seymour C. Cromwell is spending August at Duck Pond, her country home in Bernardsville, N. J.

Mrs. Vincent Astor's at the St. Regis on her way to Newport from Europe.

Mr. James B. Duke and her young daughter will sail tomorrow for an extended trip in Europe.

If Bent on Dyeing, Avoid Preparations Containing Lead

by

Dr. Frederic Damrau of Brooklyn, N. Y., says all the hair dyeing isn't being done by women, although it's admitted the fair sex is using up much henna of one shade and another these days.

He tells in an article in a monthly health publication of meeting a callow blonde youth who dyed his hair a jet black. The flapper whom he was courting simply could not tolerate a man who did not resemble Rudolph Valentino, so the poor boy dyed his hair rather than disappoint the girl.

How frequently love turns the color of woman's hair I know not. It must be, though, that men favor blondes, as is so frequently remarked. If not, why the frequency of the peroxide head?

In Hollywood one would hastily conclude after a short tour of the studios that to be a movie star one had to be a blonde. But there is a reason for it. The blonder the hair, the more beautifully it photographs.

Happily, bleaching the hair does not do it a great deal of harm, according to Dr. Damrau. It may become dry and brittle if persisted in long enough, but it does not interfere with its growth nor is the peroxide capable of the scalp damage that may be credited other dyes.

Henna, providing you get a becoming shade, isn't poisonous. It is obtained from the powdered leaves of the plant, and is one of the oldest hair dyes known.

If you are thinking of changing the color of your hair, the caution offered you here, free, is to avoid dyes containing lead. Part of the bad name hair dyeing got arose in the old days when most hair dyes contained lead. Some of them still do, and against their use you cannot be cautioned strongly enough.

"The master culprit of them all," thinks Dr. Damrau, "is the aniline dye paraphenylenediamine, used to dye the hair jet black."

It will dye the hair as black as you want it. About that there is no question but it may at the same time cause violent inflammation of the skin and symptoms of poisoning. In Germany, France and Austria the sale of this dye is prohibited by law.

BEAUTY ANSWERS

MRS. J.: SOFT TISSUES ARE RESPONSIBLE for the fine lines which have formed around and under the eyes. To harden the tissues apply absorbent cotton which has been dipped in cold salt water. Have the water quite salty. Allow the cotton to remain on for ten minutes, repeating several times during the day.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

The Tribune will pay $1 for every letter published on "The Most Embarrassing Moment of My Life." Address Embarrassing Moments, Chicago Tribune. Write on one side of the paper. No manuscript returned.

She Laughed Last.

When the good Lord was distributing gifts of beauty He must have overlooked me. To begin with, my size is ungainly. My eyes are small, closely set, and of no describable color. I have a nose that protrudes far too much. My mouth extends from ear to ear and my big "horse-teeth" overlap one another.

However, I am resigned to my fate, as one who is ever to be an "ugly duckling," and—just to be a good sport—make lightly of the teasing jests sometimes flung in my direction by those pesky, half-baked creatures, males of high school age.

At the election of officers of the senior class all went well until the class beauty was to be selected.

One lad whispered to the boys seated about him that, just for a lark, Miss C. [myself] should be given a few votes. The suggested prank spread like fire among the thoughtless rascals.

When the pieces of paper had been unfolded and read aloud by the vote counter, a twittering of amusement found its way around the assembly hall, for it was discovered that some one's little joke had been carried too far—Miss C. had received a great many votes.

My most embarrassing moment was when the dignified old dean, calmly and without the flicker of a smile, announced that Miss C. had been chosen by majority vote—the beauty of the graduation class. C. D. K.

Skirts Threaten to Flare Outward Again

By Helene Geron

NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.]—To coin an English "bull," the graceful outflaring flare is "in." Immediately this smart style appeared upon the scene it captured the attention of a smart world, weary of the straight and up and down line of our recent styles and every one is flaring forth in this newest mode. It is a smart revival—if revival it can be called—for the new flares disport themselves in ever so many modern ways that often they need to be labeled as such in order to be recognized at all.

Observe how the flare on this smart dress takes to a backward movement and leaves the front of the frock absolutely straight and plain. It is not a deep flare, but what it lacks in depth it amply makes up in circumference, for the cut is wide and circular. The waistline, which has been moving steadily upward, has taken a sudden drop on this model, and is rather suggested than defined at the point where flare meets straight line about midway between hip and knee. The rest of the frock is quite tailored as to line, collar, and the two long stitched ends that dangle from shoulder to knee. Small buttons of dull metal outline the flare's front edges. Flat crepe, which is receiving considerable attention in the tailored mode, is used for the model illustrated here, in a new shade of blue. You see we've got the blues again this time, a rather bright blue shading on the purple.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., Aug. 12.—[Special.]—The secretary of state and Mrs. Kellogg left today for New York, from where they will motor to White Pine camp to visit President and Mrs. Coolidge for a few days.

Mrs. William F. MacCracken, wife of the new assistant secretary of commerce, did not come to Washington with Mr. MacCracken, but is in their home in Winnetka, Ill., until cooler weather. In the meantime the new assistant secretary is house hunting.

Mrs. MacCracken has been in Washington frequently as the guest of Mrs. Avery Cooley of Chicago and Washington, who was, before her marriage, Miss Queenie Ferry of Detroit. Mrs. Cooley has one of the historic old places of Washington, the former country home of the late Grover Cleveland, known as "Red Top," situated in Cleveland park, far back among its trees and shrubbery. At the time he chose it for his country residence, it was because of its absolute isolation, but Cleveland park has grown to the edge of its grounds.

"A sound advertising policy pursued over a period of years returns highly satisfactory dividends"

President of S. W. Straus & Co. gives Chicago Tribune advertising credit for building the foundation of a business now operating in 50 cities

S. W. Straus

ADVERTISING must be considered in the light of a business investment," says Mr. Straus. "Modern business furnishes an almost unlimited number of examples which demonstrate quite clearly that advertising is an investment and not an expense."

Discussing the economic value of advertising recently, Mr. Straus declared that he was convinced by long experience that a sound advertising policy pursued over a period of years returns highly satisfactory dividends.

Speaking of the advertising of his own organization, Mr. Straus went on to say: "The first advertisement to be published over the signature of S. W. Straus & Co. was printed in the columns of The Chicago Tribune in 1895. Immediate returns, of course, were small because it takes time to build confidence through advertising. However, we had faith in advertising and faith in The Chicago Tribune, and we kept at it."

"We invested a larger amount of money last year in The Chicago Tribune than in any other publication—newspaper or magazine—including a large and highly successful campaign to rent office space in the new Chicago Straus Building. Inquiries from The Chicago Tribune come not only from Chicago and its environs but in great numbers from all that rich midwest territory which The Chicago Tribune blankets. Through The Chicago Tribune our slogan, 'Forty-four years without loss to any investor,' has been brought home to millions of people."

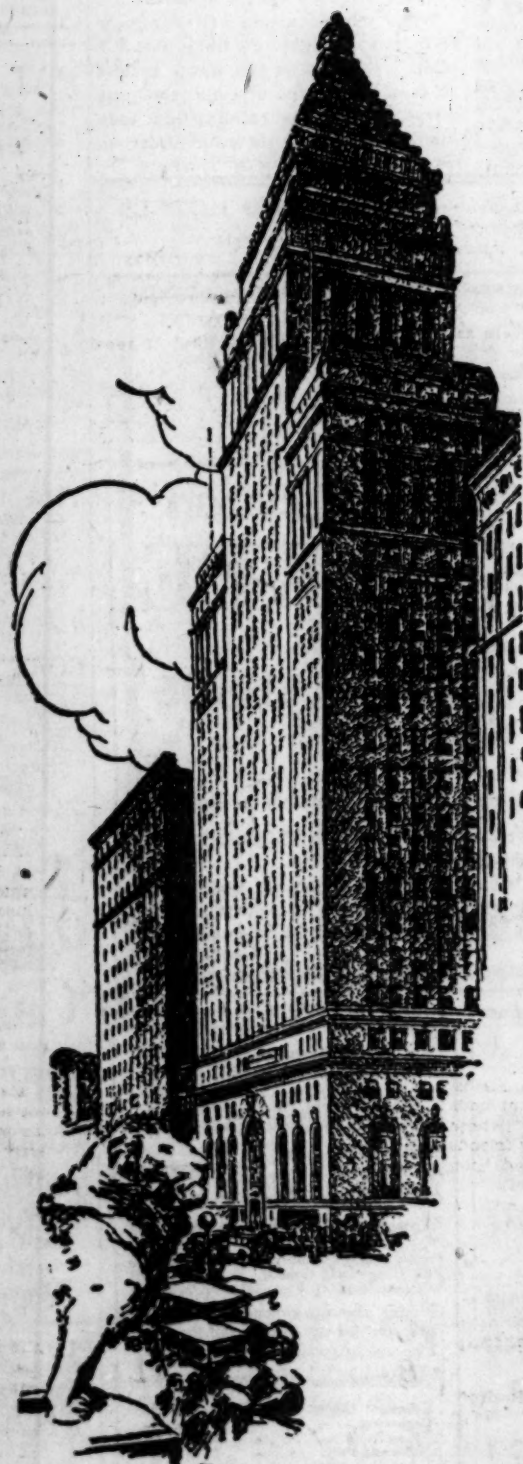

(How the Straus investment in Chicago Tribune space has grown affords an interesting study. In 1912, for instance, space was used to the extent of only $2,929. In 1925, The Chicago Tribune lineage bought by S. W. Straus & Co. totaled $54,626.)

"The sum of nearly $55,000 spent in The Chicago Tribune last year is the largest we ever have spent in any one year, in any one publication, but our advertising department considers the expense justifiable both from the standpoint of immediate returns from Tribune readers and from the investment point of view."

Since S. W. Straus & Co. first began advertising, 31 years ago, The Chicago Tribune has continued to be the backbone of the advertising program for the Western Organization of S. W. Straus & Co. And this is explained by the fact that The Tribune has proven itself a profitable medium.

Again the words of Mr. Straus: "In the experience of my company, as has been the case with many others, it is plain that advertising appropriations have been linked closely with development and growth into a nation-wide organization. It is not always possible to draw hard and fast lines between cause and effect; but it is clear that well conceived advertising placed in carefully selected mediums has been one of the most important factors responsible for the steady growth of the clientele reached by S. W. Straus & Co."

This is a powerful testimonial from a man who built up the great business which today bears his name and which has offices in 50 principal cities of the United States. It is but one of many testimonials of great business men as to the power of Tribune advertising rightly done.

HELEN BEATEN; MAY FORFEIT U. S. NET TITLE

Mrs. Mallory Downs Champ in 3 Sets.

By N. Y. Aug. 13.—(AP)—Helen Wills, women's tennis champion, indicated tonight she would withdraw from the national title play next week as a result of her defeat today in the semi-finals of the New York state tournament by Mrs. Mallory, 6-4, 6-2.

The three-time titleholder, admitting she was tired after the first set, wired her father, Dr. C. A. Wills of Berkeley, Cal., asking whether she should continue her play.

After Dr. Wills had been advised that Helen had been defeated, he telegraphed her to cease competition for the present and not play in the national tournament.

[Helen's withdrawal from the national title play would mean that she would forfeit her present title.]

Composed Facing Defeat.

"I felt fine in the first set, but after that things didn't go so well," Miss Wills said.

She has been trying to regain form after a two months' absence from the court following an operation for appendicitis in Europe.

The champion displayed a far superior brand of tennis today to that she exhibited last week at Seabright, N. J., where she fell in straight sets before the chop strokes of Miss Elizabeth Ryan. In the first two sets, during which she played Mrs. Mallory, even terms, she drove with great pace and precision and was steady at the net under her rival's withering base line fire. The match was played under a scorching sun.

With the tide of battle running against her in the final set, Miss Wills played with remarkable composure, apparently content to accept defeat. Mrs. Mallory, securing her first victory over Miss Wills since the latter dethroned her in 1923, unleashed a furious assault of drives and raced over her court for sensational recoveries.

Molla Exhausted by Play.

The victor was exhausted at the final and dropped her chair at 6-4, the side lines, almost overcome by the intense heat. Miss Wills, on the other hand, left the court after the hour and a half struggle apparently none the worse for the duress.

Games went to service in the first set until the eleventh when Mrs. Mallory broke through at love by sideline returns of service for clean placement. Miss Wills then scored a counter break, coming to the net to handle her opponent's hard drives. The champion maintained her brilliant pace by taking her next service and Mrs. Mallory's for the first time.

The former champion opened with a first game break through Miss Wills in the second set, playing with vigor and determination despite the fact that she was from side to side to cover her sharp and well placed drives. After taking her own service to lead at 1-4, Mrs. Mallory lost the third and fourth games, and the count was tied at two-all.

Helen Weakens in Last Set.

Mrs. Mallory then broke through again in the seventh game, which proved the turning point of the second set. Miss Wills was carried to deuce to save her own service in the sixth game, after which Mrs. Mallory won through the final game at love to carry the set, 6-4.

After a double break through service at the start of the third set, Mrs. Mallory took four straight games. Miss Wills was able to save only one of her four service games in the final set. The champion, failing to cover court with the vigor she had displayed in the first two sets, scored only 20 points to 22 for Mrs. Mallory.

The result qualified Mrs. Mallory to oppose Miss Mary K. Browne in the final round tomorrow.

Commission Bans Ring Bouts With Stage Shows

More permits for boxing shows are being held in conjunction with vaudeville or burlesque performances will be issued at its meeting yesterday.

The commission also decided not to issue any more licenses for shows unless the applications on hand now have been acted upon. According to Chairman Richards there are twenty-seven licenses for permits on file.

TWO VETERANS WALK PLANK IN PIRATE MUTINY

Carey Demoted, Traynor Named Captain.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Aug. 13.—(AP)—The unconditional release of Babe Adams and Carson Bigbee and the suspension of Capt. Max Carey without pay indefinitely was announced tonight at Pittsburgh baseball headquarters after a meeting of the players with officials to discuss discussion in the ranks.

Club officials said waivers would be asked on Carey and that he would be shipped immediately to any club claiming him. Pie Traynor was named as captain to succeed Carey.

The shakeup followed a movement led by the three players, to oust from the players' bench Fred Clarke, vice president of the club and adviser to Manager McKee.

Dreyfuss Acts Promptly.

With the champions leading the National league pennant chase at this vital stage of the race, Sam Dreyfuss, treasurer of the club and son of the owner, Barney Dreyfuss, who is in Europe, decided late today to act on the bottom of the affair at once. When the players arrived from the east on a special train they went to Forbes field, home of the Pirates, where a meeting was held. Before the session began Dreyfuss said, "I'll do all the talking."

The release of the veterans, Adams and Bigbee, and the passing of Carey from the Pirates picture, was Dreyfuss' reply to charges of some players that two men—Clarke and McKee—were bossing the club. The drastic shakeup came after Clarke had announced he would not return to the bench until heavy penalties had been inflicted upon the offenders.

Carey Explains Stand.

Internal strife in the ranks of the players dated from the recent loss of a doubleheader to Boston, the Braves blanking the Pirates twice. Carey, in a statement, said he had heard several players comment adversely on the presence of Clarke on the bench. He approached McKee and after telling him of the manager's criticism, he said, McKee made it clear to favor the captain's stand.

Internal Strife in the Ranks.

Internal strife in the ranks of the players dated from the recent loss of a doubleheader to Boston, the Braves blanking the Pirates twice. Carey, in a statement, said he had heard several players comment adversely on the presence of Clarke on the bench. He approached McKee and after telling him of the manager's criticism, he said, McKee made it clear to favor the captain's stand.

Clarke, Learning of the Movement, Demanded Action.

Cooperating in the management of the club with young Dreyfuss, he stood in position to get action. He said he was surprised and pained to learn of any such movement, since it hurt the club's chances to gain a second world's championship and seriously affected the morale of the players. His every suggestion, he said, had been made in good faith, with the idea that it would help win ball games. McKee upheld Clarke. He spoke of their friendly relations on the playing field and commended Clarke highly for his assistance in managing a championship team.

Carey, in Explaining his Part in the Anti-Clarke Movement, Made it Plain that There was Nothing Personal.

That was the fact that Carey and Clarke, and what he sought to do was placate the players who felt the team needed but one boss.

Clarke "Made" Adams and Carey.

Sports writers, close followers of Pirate fortunes for years, pointed with surprise to the fact that Carey and Adams were named as leaders of the ousting movement. These men developed into big league stars under the watchful eye of Clarke, who, while manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates for years gone by, stepped down from his center field berth to give Carey his chance in the big show.

Adams Likewise Was Developed by Clarke.

Adams likewise was developed by Clarke and, in the Pirate-Detroit world series of 1903, it was Clarke who sent the Babe to undying baseball fame by placing him on the mound in the crucial contest. Babe was given credit for winning the series, but in the background stood the man who brought him up and developed him—Clarke.

THEY'LL PLAY NET FINALS

Sidney B. Wood Jr. (left) and Junior Coen will meet today in national boys' tennis championship.

Wood and Gledhill Win National Boys Net Title

By HOWARD ROBERTS.

Keith Gledhill of Santa Barbara, who stands close to six feet in height, and Sidney Wood of Forest Hills, N. J., who is not much taller than the racket he wields, yesterday won the national boys' doubles championship at the South Side Tennis club with an easy and somewhat unexpected victory over Junior Coen of Kansas City and Billy O'Loughlin of Pittsburgh, first seeded combination. The scores were 6-2, 6-4.

Wood and Gledhill, who were seeded sixth in the doubles, went about their work with a rush and had the favorites on the defensive from the start. Little Wood was smashing the ball with as much nonchalance as though he were in a practice match, while Gledhill's decisive volleying left Coen and O'Loughlin helpless. O'Loughlin left his usually aggressive game in the clubhouse and Coen also was not at his best and they hadn't a chance against their opponents' spirited attack.

Wood in Singles Finals.

Little Wood made himself even more prominent by upsetting Billy O'Loughlin in the singles semifinals, 6-4, 6-2. Billy was seeded No. 2, while Wood was entirely overlooked by the tournament committee. But the mere matter of ranking made little difference to Sidney, who banged merrily all over the court, chasing Billy all over the place, winning much as he pleased, and having a great time doing it.

Junior Coen ran into a bit of argument in the opening set of his semi-final singles match with Keith Gledhill, but struck his stride in the second to win 6-2, 6-4.

The lanky coast boy swept through Junior for the first four games, using his great reach to advantage at the net, Coen being unable to pass him when he came to the barrier. With defeat looking him in the eye, however, Junior settled down to his task and took five straight games and eventually the set. The second set was a walkaway with Coen keeping Gledhill in the back court with drives to the corners of the base line.

Smith and Jacobs Win.

C. Alphonse Smith, boys' champion two years ago, and his teammate, Eddie Jacobs, both of Baltimore, staged a game, uphill comeback after twice being within a point of defeat to topple Don Strachan, Philadelphia, and Howard Langlie, Seattle, 6-1, 3-6, 10-8, to enter the semi-finals of the junior doubles.

Both teams played brilliant tennis, especially in the third set, which kept the players and the gallery at high tension. The deciding set ran along on even terms to fall. Langlie and Strachan then broke down Smith's service for the lead. Strachan worked the count to 40-15 on his service and it looked like the end for the Baltimore boys. But the easterners were quick for a moment and the easterners pressed the advantage to square the match.

Finals This Afternoon.

Jacobs and Smith clinched the match in the eighteenth game when Langlie, on even terms to fall, Langlie and Strachan then broke down Smith's service for the lead. Strachan worked the count to 40-15 on his service and it looked like the end for the Baltimore boys. But the easterners were quick for a moment and the easterners pressed the advantage to square the match.

Saratoga Springs, N. Y., Aug. 13.—(AP)—"Hoodlums fight in the streets," was Jack Dempsey's answer today to the offer of Harry Wills, Negro contender for the heavyweight title, to knock the champion out any time he wanted for nothing. Dempsey remarked that he did not make his living fighting in the streets and has always tried to uphold the boxing game.

I Will Fight Dempsey for Nothing—Wills

New York, Aug. 13.—(Special.)—Harry Wills is ready to fight Jack Dempsey for nothing but the satisfaction of knocking him.

"I've been reading in the papers that Dempsey says he has tried to get me in the ring for the last five years. He's a liar," Wills declared today.

"If he keeps on fussing around with that sort of stuff he won't have to wait till he gets me in the ring."

"You can quote me on this: I'll fight Dempsey any time he wants to meet me at Broadway and 42nd street, and I don't want a penny to fight him either. I'll knock him out so quick he'll be sorry he was ever born."

"Dempsey and his advisers are picking out a man that will bring him $450,000 for a purse," he commented on the Tunney-Dempsey negotiations.

"He could get a lot more for fighting me, but he's afraid of me."

"Street Fights—Fool"—Jack.

Saratoga Springs, N. Y., Aug. 13.—(AP)—"Hoodlums fight in the streets," was Jack Dempsey's answer today to the offer of Harry Wills, Negro contender for the heavyweight title, to knock the champion out any time he wanted for nothing. Dempsey remarked that he did not make his living fighting in the streets and has always tried to uphold the boxing game.

SAM ALPERT, 15, TAKES JUNIOR GOLFING CROWN

Defeats Francis Clary, 2 and 1, in Final.

Sam Alpert, 15 year old student of Austin High school, yesterday won the Western Junior Golf tournament at Edgewater by defeating Francis Clary, 18 year old Lincoln park lad, 2 and 1.

Alpert, who grew up on the Garfield park links, had an uphill struggle right down the way. Clary was one up at noon when they finished the first half of the 36 hole route. But Sammy wasn't discouraged. He came right back on the first hole of the afternoon round and squared the match. From that point on it was a see-saw battle, the score being even at the 27th.

Both Have Trouble.

Both boys played brilliantly at times, only to lapse into mediocrity. Alpert had trouble off the tee, his drives frequently landing in the rough. But his great recoveries enabled him to offset his weakness with his driver. Clary's drives were not quite as long as Alpert's, but they usually went straight down the road. Erratic work on the green on the last nine proved his downfall.

Alpert's superiority began to assert itself on the twelfth hole of the last round. The match was all even at this point. Both got their drives away in good shape, but Clary's second shot landed in a deep trap on the left of the green. Alpert's second was on the edge of the green. Clary overshot it a few inches, costing him a stroke. He sand. It took him five strokes to sink the ball, while Alpert was down in four.

Alpert Increases Lead.

It seemed as if Clary would get that back on the 30 yard thirteenth when Sammy drove into a trap. Clary's was in the middle of the fairway and his second found the edge of the green. Alpert was on in 3 and ran down a putt for a par 4. Clary's putter faltered badly and he took a 5. That made Alpert 2 up.

Clary won the fourteenth when Alpert, in addressing the ball, moved it a few inches, costing him a stroke. He sand. It took him five strokes to sink the ball, while Alpert was down in four.

Finish in Seventeenth.

The 155 yard seventeenth, which proved the last of the match, saw beautiful drives by both boys. Alpert's, however, stopped only five feet from the pin. Clary, from the green's edge, putted up to five yards from the hole and Sam's tap rolled over the cup. Cool as a Siberian blizzard, Alpert got his next putt down, while Clary's missed its mark by an inch.

Two hundred and forty-five players between the ages of 15 and 19, among them several state and district champions, competed for the gold medal which Alpert last night put on display in his home on Independence boulevard.

IN THE WAKE OF THE NEWS

EARLIER CHICAGO.

DEAR WAKE: My memory harks back to the time when the Knights of Labor movement was at its height. Its promise for every one to work only eight hours instead of ten and twelve hours as then customary struck a responsive chord with the toilers.

Like all new movements, it had its skeptics and some wit wrote a song which we kids of the time adopted. We would congregate in front of a barber shop when it was full of customers waiting their turn and would wait something like this:

I've worked eight hours today.
I think I've earned my pay.
So leave your whippers on Till the morning, John.
For I'll not work another minute longer.

The finale usually was a chase around the corner by one of the barbers.

Friend Bert.

DEAR WAKE: As one of "a few very old timers" I would like to correct a statement from Harper Anon. who did not attend the 13th street school but I did, in 1856 or 1857, attend the No. 7 school, afterward the Dearborn, where Miss Alice L. Barnard taught and where she was still teaching when I entered the old and only high school.

I know the names of some of those mentioned and also knew the "Johnsons" who would be very much incensed at the omission of "J." after the first "A." One of them is still living in Pasadena. Lucy R. (Pittney) Walker.

Fate and The Candle.

As I watched a candle's flicker smaller and smaller grow,
I asked of Fate:
"Can it be too late
To begin to live like I should have lived
A long, long time ago?"

I beheld my candle dying, its flame return to glow,
I cried to Fate:
"It's late too late
To begin to live like I should have lived
A long, long time ago."

And the dawn disturbed my dreaming, my thoughts lost their flow,
I wailed to Fate:
"It's never too late
To begin to live like I should have lived
A long, long time ago."

Turf Hunches.

On Thursday at Lincoln Fields, Grand Dan won at the succulent odds of $20.05 for $1. A regular whod opinion is frequently sought by friends because of his turf wisdom had been presented with a pint of "Grand Dan" whisky the night before. He thought it a "good thing." Therefore the next day when the usual number sought his advice, he replied with a word of humor which he did not explain, "I know Grand Dan is good." After the race, he received many compliments for his keen judgment and handicapping ability.

WANTED: STEADY, RELIABLE HELP; APPLY SOX PARK

Collins Seeks Infielder, Outfielder, and Pitcher.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

If he can get his hands on a few rookies who are not in the messenger boy class, Boss Edoué Collins of the White Sox will do a little experimenting between now and the close of the current race in the Ban Johnson circuit. With himself out of the game indefinitely and two units of his team in need of repair, the south side manager is convinced he can go nowhere this fall except home, hence a desire to build now instead of waiting and trying to judge a lot of odds and ends in the spring camp.

After Good Infielder.

What Collins would like to have dragged in for inspection is an infielder of worth, either minor or major. He has had his eye on a fellow now possessed by another American league team, but hasn't been able to make progress in this direction. The need of such a player is apparent, now that Collins is showing unmistakable signs of going over the hill as a regular.

Berg at short and Hunnefeld at second, a combination tried for the first time in the two games at Cleveland, probably will work satisfactorily instead of the former setup which proved his ability to hit.

Another Hurler Wanted.

Another item on which Collins realizes he is short is pitching. He would welcome the purchase of some $100,000 rookie able to work regularly with Blankenship, Lyons and Thomas. Outside of this trio his present staff is as shaky as jelly and he is further aggravated by the fact that Blankenship is out with an injury and won't pitch for another two weeks at least. Still another need is a hard hitting outfielder, preferably a left-handed hitter.

The Sox will resume business at the home stand today with the Tigers the other half of the act. The same program will prevail tomorrow, after which the Hogs go east, stopping on the way for a game at Detroit Monday.

JUDGE'S ABSENCE BALKS WRIT PLEA

Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 13.—(AP)—Absence of the judge today prevented hearing in a Marion county Superior court of a petition for a temporary injunction to prevent Jack Dempsey from defending his heavyweight crown until he fulfills a contract claimed to be held by the Chicago Coliseum club. Attorneys for the Chicago organization, which maintains Dempsey is under contract to it to box Harry Wills, Negro challenger, and legal representatives of the champion awaited in vain the arrival of Judge Clinton H. Givan. The judge was reported to be at the summer home near here. At the end of the court day, representatives of Dempsey said they had answered the call and indicated they were through with the case.

Attorneys for the Chicago Coliseum club, however, said they would wait until tomorrow to see if Judge Givan did not make a belated appearance.

W-G-N Will Broadcast Lincoln Fields Races Today

The races at Lincoln Fields will be on the air today. W-G-N, The Chicago Tribune station on the Drake hotel, is to broadcast the complete day's card from the new track, starting at 2 o'clock. Quin Ryan will announce the event, and assisting him in furnishing details of the races will be French Lane and Harvey Woodruff, famous racing experts, and J. L. Dempsey, Racing Form authority. "Sam" n' Henry, W-G-N famous colored boys, will also help entertain.

14,000 WATCH SANGOR WADE INTO CHAMPION

Fight Decisions

At Cuba Park—Charley Rosenberg and Joey Sangor, draw [10]. Fidel La Barba beat Emil Paluso [10]. Sam Myers and Russell La Roy, draw [10]. Clyde Hall stopped Lee Was [3]. Young Ross beat Johnny Williams [3].

BY WALTER ECKERSALL.
(Pictures on back page.)

Before 14,000, the largest crowd to see a boxing show since the sport was legalized last spring, Fidel La Barba of Los Angeles, the world's flyweight champion, won the decision over Emil Paluso of Salt Lake City, and Charley Phil Rosenberg of New York, holder of the world's bantamweight title, and Joey Sangor of Milwaukee boxed ten rounds to a draw.

The bouts were the features of Jim Mullen's boxing show at the Cuba Park last night and the crowd left the park contented with having seen a well conducted show and plenty of boxing and slugging.

Although many thought Sangor was entitled to the decision over Rosenberg, the decision of Referee Jimmy Gardner met with the approval of a majority of the fans. Sangor was the aggressor in some of the rounds, but the champion evened up the score by solid punching at close quarters.

Neither Lands Powerfully.

Joey at times looked like the champion and landed many stinging punches, but failed even to jar the title holder. On the other hand, Rosenberg rocked Sangor several times with right crosses and uppercuts.

On several occasions he rallied in big mixups and let go with both hands, but neither was on the verge of a knockdown at any time. Each measured the other to put over a sleep producing punch, but the blows didn't connect with enough power behind them. Sangor was particularly effective with a left hook and jab. He jabbed his left and crossed with his right in the regular one-two fashion.

Rosenberg showed himself to be a pretty fair counter puncher. At times he purposely permitted Sangor to lead and then beat him to the punch.

La Barba Earns Decision.

To appearances the fighters tried throughout the fight. The champion weighed 122½ pounds and Sangor 123½ pounds.

La Barba was entitled to Referee Bennis Yanger's decision over Emil Paluso, the determined Utah flyweight. The 112 pound king used a left hook effectively. At times he hooked his left to the body and then brought it to the head without returns.

In the second round the champion caught Paluso flush on the jaw with a left hook and Emil went to the canvas. He was up before the count could be started. In the eighth La Barba shot his left to the jaw and again Paluso went down. This knockdown was partly a slip, but the punch had something to do with it.

Fidel Real Champion.

Throughout the fight Paluso depended upon a vicious right hook. There was plenty of stuff behind it, but the champion was careful to keep out of its way. As it was Emil did jar the champion a couple of times with his right swings and hooks.

La Barba showed himself to be a great little ring general. He can hit hard with his left hand and uses his right expertly. He is a splendid blocker and although Paluso did connect at times the manner in which the champion slipped punches and ducked under swings proved his ability.

In the sixth round, which was Emil's best session, Paluso knocked the champion back on his heels with a right cross. He followed the advantage and had a clear margin at the end of the round. This was the only session which could be given to the Salt Lake battler. Some of the other rounds could be called a draw, but there is no getting away from the fact La Barba had enough advantage in the majority of rounds to earn the decision. The champion scaled 116½ pounds and Paluso 115 pounds.

La Roy Draws with Myers.

The ten rounder between Russell La Roy of Fargo, N. D., and Spug Myers of California, which was called a draw, was the best bout on the card from a fighting standpoint. It was a slugger match from start to finish, with each trying to put over a knockout wallop.

Clyde Hull of Texas scored a technical knockout over Lee Was, claimant of the Australian welterweight title, in the third round.

Because of the knockout in the opening bout, Promoter Jim Mullen decided to put on the emergency bout, which brought together Young Ross of Chicago and Johnny Williams, the Salt Lake City featherweight. At the six of six circular rounds, Ross was given the decision.

MINNESOTA AND WISCONSIN RAISE RAIL RATE BARS

BY HARPER LEECH.

In recent discussions of the discrimination yet practiced against interstate shippers by means of intrastate rates, Iowa has been cited as an example. But Iowa is not the only midwestern commonwealth maintaining what amounts to a protective tariff by means of railroad rates. In a fabric so complicated by history as the railway rate structure of the United States it would be strange if every state in the Union is not involved to some slight extent. And the agrarian states are most affected. East and south there is less of it.

Minnesota and Wisconsin, both moving large quantities of dairy products to interstate markets, both seem to take excellent care of their local markets for their own producers.

TRANS shippers say that the average of interstate rates exceeds the average of Minnesota intrastate rates by 32.2 per cent.

The depression in the Minnesota rates has been found to be discriminatory in two interstate commerce commission cases, and it has been ordered that the same rates be applied within the state for the like distances as apply to Fargo, N. D., and Watertown, S. D.

On carload shipments of butter, cheese, and eggs, 100 miles intrastate to and from Minnesota, takes a state rate of 32 cents. For a 300 mile haul the discrimination against the interstate haul amounts to 21 cents. The rate structure has shut many interstate shippers and manufacturers from markets held fast by the Twin Cities. It is the contention of Chicago rate experts that, until such time as the intrastate business bears a fair share of the transportation cost in western territory, the interstate rates will be called upon to carry an undue share.

Wisconsin long maintained passenger fares at an intrastate level, which finally resulted in an adverse Supreme court decision, which laid down the general rule against such discriminations. Freight and passenger rates from Chicago, the intrastate rate is 48.5 cents, while the Wisconsin intrastate rate for a corresponding distance is 39.5 cents on dairy products moving over the third class rates in carload quantities.

The intrastate rate is 22.9 per cent higher than the intrastate rate, and the same general differential applies up to a haul of 461 miles, the longest distance within the boundaries of Wisconsin. In class rates from Chicago to Wisconsin points there is a general discrimination, the average intrastate rate being 5.3 per cent higher than the intrastate rate for corresponding distances within the state.

Wisconsin is the leading pea state, shipping canned peas to every state in the Union. Canned peas in less than carload lots take the fourth class rate. Between Chippewa Falls and Chicago, 221 miles, that rate is 49 cents, while the Wisconsin intrastate rate for the same distance is 33.5 cents, the intrastate rate being 37 per cent higher than the intrastate rate.

COOLIDGE TO PUT HIS
PLAN IN EF$100,000,000 F
Loan Propo

BY ARTHUR SEARS

(Chicago Tribune From

Paul Smith's, N. Y., Aug. 14.—A move of extraordinary character is being made by the administration, it transpires, into effect, privately, daily, the farm relief program by the President in the last congress.

It is this project, which has been conceived by Secretary Hoover, proves successful banking groups, insurance, and mortgage loan will form a pool of $100,000,000 to be loaned to agricultural marketing organizations for the marketing of farm products.

Confers With Farm

Some of the preliminary work involved were disclosed by Charles S. Barrett, head of the National Farmers' union, who to confer with the President's invitation on the part of the agricultural problem two hour conference with the executive office here, accompanied the White Pine camp as a witness. Mr. Barrett revealed that to the Adirondacks he stood in New York and talked with the President about the plan to finance and the farm conference in the near future. He was interested in the solution of the agricultural problem, he declared, to go into details of the plan, but he was not at liberty to discuss the details of their discussion.

Hoover Working

It is understood, however, that the plan is to be brought to the attention of the President and other officials, which was considered by President Coolidge and Hoover. The President is known that, in a general proposition is to organize insurance companies and loan concerns into an institution for extending credits to a large scale. Mr. Hoover, working on the plan, was of its approval by the President, he expected to shortly in a conference with representatives of the government officials.

The Fess bill, which was President Coolidge, but was beaten in the senate by Republicans and southern Democrats, proposed an appropriation of $100,000,000 from the national treasury to farmers' cooperative organizations for financing a surplus control.

What Fess Bill

Under its terms, the farmers would promote marketing production, to be financed from the government, enable the cooperatives and hold farm products, prevent the dumping on the market, and other to prevent the surplus from falling the price.

The President was with the plan, but was unable to the corn belt plan of trust embodied in the Fess bill, which he pronounced economically unsound.

After conferring here, about a few weeks ago, (Map, O.) indicated that there was no abatement of the part of the administration in congress to the plan. He said there was of the effort to put the bill when congress reconvenes, which the administration is now considering is to be to accomplish privately all that was intended had the Fess bill.

Only Adequate

There are numerous cooperative organizations existing, and the only farm plan passed at the congress creates a cooperative division in the department for the expression of the cooperative movement.

All that these cooperatives are to do is to finance the Fess bill, insurance companies, and the financial interests, it is suggested.
